JPB Partners Today Announced It Has Hired Tom Cullen as its Chief Financial and Compliance Officer.

COLUMBIA, MD, October 5, 2018 – JPB Partners is pleased to announce the addition of Thomas (Tom) Cullen as Chief Financial and Compliance Officer for the Company. Tom will be responsible for managing the firm's financial, operational, and administrative activities. These activities include partnership accounting, financial reporting, tax and compliance.

"We are excited to welcome Tom to our team," said Jim Bolduc, President of JPB Partners. "Tom's extensive finance, accounting, and compliance experience in the private equity industry will strengthen our financial operations and be valuable to our firm."

Tom has over 25 years of experience in finance, accounting, administration, and operations in financial services and the private equity industry. Prior to joining JPB, Mr. Cullen was Chief Financial and Compliance Officer Calvert Street Capital Partners.

"I'm pleased to join JPB Partners, a firm with highly experienced investment professionals and a strong record of value creation and commitment to their investors," expressed Tom.

Tom is a Certified Public Accountant and earned a BBA in Accounting from the College of William and Mary.
